PHD PROGRAM [1]

Students pursuing a doctoral degree in anthropology at the University of Washington focus on one of three subfields. Each of the three subfields has its own set of requirements.

- Archaeology [2]
- Biological Anthropology [3]
- Sociocultural Anthropology [4]

Graduate students in the PhD program may also add the following to their program of study:

- specialization in medical anthropology and global health [5]
- statistics concentration [6]
- graduate certificates in feminist studies, global health, public scholarship, and other areas [7]

For information on applying to the anthropology PhD program, see Graduate Admissions [8].